THE HOUSE OF WISDOM.

Had not thought—ah, God, had I but known!—That this sad hour should ever befall me! When I judged the holiest of all should come to be the thing I must do down. Was it not true, that April morn, thy blown Gold hair around my hair for coronal, Or as this truer—than at the outer wall, Unroyal and with unrepentant moan?

Yet prize I now this wisdom I have won Who must always remember—nay, my tear Must close mine eyes, as thou wouldst hide thy face. If some great meteor, kindred to the sun, Should haunt the nuyding stars ten million years To fall, some noon, dead in thy market place. —Francis Sherman in Bookman.

THE LITTLE TITMOUSE.

One Free Bird That Attracts Attention Among Hundreds of Captives.

In a big bird store where there are hundreds of birds of many kinds incessantly squawking, chirping and singing there is one that is free—a tiny titmouse. The window is full of cages containing birds of various sorts, and one side of the store is lined with bird-cages stacked up high all along. But there is none that attracts so much attention as the little titmouse sitting about the store at will. At night it perches on a gas fixture in the window, and to that it comes back from its various excursions by day.

Customers that come in to buy birds and birdcages and bird seed and one thing and another never fail to notice the titmouse. They may not notice another bird there individually, but their attention is sure to be attracted by this one as it darts about, free among so many captives, and they are likely to smile at it, they are so pleased with it. And sometimes children, looking in at the windows of the bird store, come in to tell the clerk that one of the birds has got loose.

When it has nothing else to do, the titmouse sits on its gas pipe perch and perks its head this way and that and looks about. Sometimes it whets its beak on the gas pipe. Every now and then it dashes off somewhere. If it wants a drink, it perches on the rim of a goldfish globe—for home aquariums and stock for them are sold here as well as birds—no doubt to the great surprise of the goldfishes and certainly to the wonder of the human beholders, who wonder that it doesn't fall in, it has to bend over so far to reach the water. But it gets it, and when it has taken its fill it flashes back to its perch on the pipe in the window.

The titmouse catches spiders and other insects, and it feeds in the larger cages when it will. It goes in and out of them between the bars with perfect ease. It is a very little bird, even with its plumage in its natural form. With its feathers pressed against its sides it can get through a very narrow space—between the bars of a parrot's cage, for example—with ease. There are in the window a number of parrots' cages in a row. The titmouse almost flies through these cages, stopping in each perhaps to eat of the parrots' food, but they never molest it. Parrots that would bite at the finger of a man who should put his hand near enough to the outside of their cage stand back in fright or sheer amazement when the little titmouse dashes in and perches on their feed cup. —New York Sun.

German Education.

The Germans are the most thoroughly educated people in the world. What they know they know well.

A fellow traveler had taken his degree of B. A. in the University of Pennsylvania and gone to that of Berlin, where he spent three years. Subsequently traveling in Switzerland, he met a young German whose range and accuracy of knowledge were simply beyond that of any man of the same age he had ever met. In many walks and talks the German had absolutely pumped the American dry, while his own store of knowledge had only been touched. "Ach," said the German student one day, "I shall never get my degree, it is so difficult, it is so much, so hard, so long! I must have patience. I used to see you at the University of Berlin, and, forgive me the question, how did you get into the university?"

"Why, I was admitted on my B. A. from the University of Pennsylvania," replied the American.

"Mein Gott!" gasped the German scholar. "I knew it must be some way like that."

No better comment on the relative standards of knowledge and the thoroughness of the method by which it is pursued could be asked. —Philadelphia Times.

A Peculiar Feeling.

The sensation of homesickness has been variously described, but never more graphically than by a little girl who, miles away from home and mamma, sat heavy eyed and silent at a hotel table. "Aren't you hungry, dear?" asked her aunt, with whom she was traveling.

"No."

"Does your head ache?"

"No."

"What is the matter?"

The child's lip quivered, and she said in a tone to grieve the heart:

"I'm seasick for home." —National Farmer.

Harbor Mistress Fuller.

Miss Fuller, a newspaper woman, has lately been appointed harbor mistress of Tacoma, Wash. It is said that thus far she has done remarkably good work, keeping all records pertaining to the extensive shipping business of the city in perfect shape. Last month she made out the harbor master's report for the year, the first report of the kind ever made out by an American woman.

The Real Difficulty.

"The trouble with you," said Mr. Ruffedge's wife, after a warm debate, "is that you are a confirmed dyspeptic."

"No, my dear," was the answer. "That's not correct. The trouble with me is that I am a contradicted dyspeptic." —Washington Star.

In New York

a short while ago a baby was born in jail. Its mother was being tried for murder. Every womanly heart gives a throb of sympathy at the thought of the blight upon the poor little baby's life. But a baby need not be born in jail to be an unfortunate. Any baby which is not welcomed into this world with loving hearts and ready hands is unfortunate. Any mother who is physically weak and incapable of bestowing a healthy constitution upon her baby may darken its future with weakness and disease.

A prospective mother ought to insure her baby's welfare by every means that Nature and science afford to keep her physical powers up to the very highest point.

Every expectant mother ought to know and avail herself of the strengthening and re-enforcing properties of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It gives health and endurance to the delicate organs concerned in motherhood. Taken early during the period of expectancy, it makes the coming of baby perfectly safe and comparatively easy. It makes the mother strong and cheerful, and gives health and natural vigor to the child.

It is the only medicine of its kind devised for weak and delicate women by an educated, experienced physician.

For nearly 30 years Dr. Pierce has been chief consulting physician to the Buffalo Hotel and Surgical Institute of Buffalo, N. Y. His thousand-page illustrated book, "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser" contains advice and suggestions which every woman ought to read. A paper-bound copy will be sent at once upon receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to pay cost of mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y. Cloth-bound for 31 stamps.

A sure and permanent cure for constipation is Dr. Pierce's Pellets. One "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, two a mild cathartic.

M. D., F. R. S.

An eminent physician and Fellow of the Royal Society, seeing over the door of a paltry alehouse, the Crown and Thistle, by Malcolm MacTavish, M. D., F. R. S., walked in and severely rebuked the landlord for this presumptuous insult to science. Boniface, with proper respect, but with a firmness that showed he had been a soldier, assured the doctor that he meant no insult to science. "What right, then," asked he, "have you to put up those letters after your name?"

"I have," answered the landlord, "as good a right to these as your honor, as drum major of the Royal Scots fusiliers." —Sanitarium.

The Modern Drama.

"Have you copyrighted your play?" asked the theatrical manager.

"No," replied the dramatist, lowering his voice, "but I copied it right." —Chicago Tribune.

The Trans-Mississippi and International Congress is composed of delegates from every State and Territory West of the Mississippi river. The idea of this exposition originated in that Congress at its session at Omaha in 1895, and the project has become a National enterprise and the National Commission has been organized and is in active service, there being one commissioner for each of the several departments of the Government. Most of the Trans-Mississippi States are well along in the way of gathering exhibits from their respective States and many of them have made liberal appropriations, while others are preparing exhibits through private enterprise.

Vice-President H. B. Maxson of Reno, has made arrangements whereby he can get Nevada exhibits, shipped from any point in the State along the line of the C. P. R., to Omaha and return, and he requests all persons who wish the interests of the State advertised, to co-operate with the Exposition County Commissioner of his county, whose name is shown above, and prepare some product of his county and send it to the nearest point on the C. P. R. from which place it will be sent to Omaha and exhibited, and returned to the same point at the close of the exposition, free of expense to the exhibitor. Full information should accompany everything sent for exhibition. Before sending anything to the line of the railroad a full description should be given to the Exposition Commissioner of the county, who in turn will notify the Vice-President, who will notify him what action to take, otherwise there might be many duplications. Apply to your County Representative for further information, and don't let this opportunity of advertising the resources of Nevada be lost.

EX-GOVERNOR COLCORD'S VIEWS.

The Washington Post publishes an interview with ex-Governor R. K. Colcord of Nevada, who was recently on a visit to the National Capital. The Post reports him as saying that Nevada is gaining in population, free from debt, except to a moderate extent to the public school fund, and does not owe a cent to outside creditors.

"I am," said the ex-Governor, "a Republican and believe in the principles of that party, but I do not believe it can continue in power by the advocacy of the single gold standard. During the last few months I have traveled extensively and everywhere I find the most bitter opposition to that policy."

It is to be regretted that a gentleman who has been Governor of the great silver producing State of Nevada should believe in Republican principles when one of those principles is against the best interests of the State which once honored him with the highest office in the gift of the people. It is true that opposition to the coinage of gold and silver at the mints was not one of the avowed principles of the Republican party at the time Governor Colcord was elected and up to the time that he left the office of Governor he was an advocate of free coinage, as is proved by his valedictory address. Such being the fact there is hope that he may see the evil of his ways and again enlist under the banner of free coinage, which will be upheld by the people as they march to victory at the next election. The fact that the ex-Governor admits that the advocates of the single gold standard cannot continue in power, and that he finds everywhere in his extensive travels the most bitter opposition to that policy, clearly indicates that deep down in his heart he believes in the justice of the silver cause and may yet be one of its advocates.

OPPORTUNITY FOR INVESTORS.

The City Council of Reno has advertised for bids for bonds of the municipality to the amount of $130,000. These bonds are to be issued in accordance with an act of the Legislature approved March 8, 1897. This act has been declared constitutional by the Supreme Court of the State and there is, therefore, no question as to its validity. The bonds bear interest at the rate of six per cent per annum and the principal matures in equal annual installments between the sixth and twentieth years from the date of the issuance of the bonds and is payable in lawful money of the United States.

This affords capitalists an exceptionally good opportunity for safe investment. The bonds are as safe as those of the United States and the rate of interest is much higher. The United States bonds purchased for the school fund net the fund about three per cent per annum in interest. The interest on the Reno bonds is twice that amount. The United States bonds issued under Cleveland's Administration netted the Government about four per cent premium, that is the purchasers paid a premium of four per cent above their par value, for the bonds. A few weeks later the bonds sold on the stock exchange at a premium of sixteen per cent, netting the purchasers several millions of dollars. Doubtless the Reno bonds will sell at a premium equal to the interest for six months or a year, as the security is gilt edged and there is no better or safer investment.

Persons who have a few thousand or even five hundred dollars to invest, where there is absolutely no risk, cannot do better than purchase Reno bonds as they can be disposed of at par and probably at a premium at any time.

PARTISANISM SUNK IN PATRIOTISM.

A bill to appropriate $50,000,000 for defenses introduced in the House of Representatives by Cannon of Illinois, passed that body without a dissenting vote. This furnishes proof to the world that there is only one party in the United States when the country is menaced by a foreign foe. Though goldbugs and bimetalists quarrel and abuse each other, when the honor of the country is involved there is but one party, and the most violent partisan becomes the most ardent patriot.

Never has there been such unanimity in the House of Representatives on a question involving the appropriation of such a large amount of money. While the author of the bill may have introduced it for the purpose of forcing another bond issue his motives were not questioned; they were assumed to be patriotic and there was no objection to the bill.

While it is not probable that there will be war with Spain the action of the House should satisfy the haughty Don that the United States are in fact what their name implies and that neither men nor money will be wanting to maintain the honor of the nation on land or on sea.

Nebraska has a State law which declares that all obligations made payable in gold coin are null and void, contending that silver and gold are both legal tenders, and either can be used in debt paying, no matter what the amount. Kentucky sees how well it works in Nebraska—for no State is more prosperous—and on Thursday a law similar in every respect passed her Assembly.

By the way, why would this not be good policy as well as honest principle for every State in the Union?—Sacramento Bee.

BEFORE declaring war against the United States, Spain should note the little bet offered by Sir William Allen Englishman and naval expert. Mr. Allen is ready to wager that within a month after hostilities begin, the United States will blow every town on the Spanish coast to atoms.

The United States finds that it has within reach 32 auxiliary cruisers of the merchant fleet. An addition of that size to our commerce destroyers would make things unpleasant for the shipping of an enemy.

If all the chin music now being wasted in this country against Spain could be stored away and used for motive power during a war, Morro Castle could be shelled from New York harbor.

The people read the interior papers now to find out how much has happened, and take the metropolitan morning dailies to see how many other things might have happened which didn't.

TELEGRAPHIC NOTES.

It is now stated on good authority that England has not negotiated any loan to the Spanish Government, and is not likely to. It is believed that the report emanated from a combination of speculators in war material, vessels, etc., in order to boom their business.

The Holland Sub-marine Boat Company of New York has offered to build fifty torpedo boats for the price of one battleship. The Government has the proposition under advisement. It is said that the Holland submarine torpedo boat is the most destructive engine of war of modern times. It has been tested and meets all of the expectations of its inventor.

Minister Woodford, detailed at Madrid, Spain, has wired President McKinley that the Spanish Government has exhausted every means to raise money for war purposes, and has failed. All of the financial centers of Europe have rejected her proposals. Woodford believes that the overthrow of Sagasta, the Spanish Premier, would hasten hostilities.

In case of war Consul General Lee will immediately be appointed Brigadier General to have command of the United States forces at Cuba and the direction of the movements of troops, etc.

RELIC OF PAST AGE.

A Century Old Newspaper That Is Remarkably Well Preserved.

Mr. Glenn Brown, the architect, has an interesting relic in the shape of an old newspaper, probably one of the oldest publications to be found in this country. It is The Virginia Gazette and Alexandria Advertiser, published in Alexandria. The copy is dated Thursday, April 25, 1798. The motto of the paper, which is printed under the title, is as follows:

O thou by whose almighty rod the scale of empires rises or alternate falls, Bend forth these saving virtues round this land!

There is no mention made of the names of the publishers or editors, but an advertisement, which is inserted, asks for rags, old selves, fishing nets and the like to be brought to the office, so that paper can be made from it. From this it would seem that the firm manufactured its own paper.

In the news columns, which form but a small portion of the paper, the advertisements covering a greater part, is a dispatch dated London, Feb. 25 previous, giving an account of an insurance in Ireland. There are also published Paine's reasons for preserving the life of Louis Capet. The plan of the new French constitution is given and a number of dispatches from Paris appear.

One of the most interesting advertisements in the paper is that of a lottery. It states that it will be given by the commissioner appointed to prepare the public buildings, etc., within the city of Washington for the reception of congress and for their permanent residence after the year 1800. Samuel Blodgett was the agent for the affair in this city. The capital prize was a hotel, with all furnishings, valued at $50,000. There were cash prizes of $25,000, the whole amounting to $350,000. The lottery, by the way, was never held, as much opposition was developed against it. Samuel Blodgett was the one whose heirs claimed a large portion of the national capital.

There are several advertisements for runaway slaves, offering rewards of from $5 to $15. There is an offer of a reward of $40, which would seem large compared with those offered for the runaway slaves, for eight bushels of clover seed, stolen from Mount Vernon. The advertisement goes on to state that the clover seed was stolen from the granary and is supposed to have been taken by negroes. It is signed by Anthony Whiting, who was Washington's overseer.

There is an advertisement in the paper of the celebrated horse Eclipse, from which many of the thoroughbred horses of the present day have descended. There is also an advertisement of the opening of the city tavern at the sign of the "Bunch of Grapes" by John Wise. The statement is made that northern and southern mails will arrive at the office until Nov. 1 on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays at 6 p. m.

On one of the pages is a song composed for Lodge No. 10 "of Charleston," commonly called Portobacco. The paper consists of four pages of four columns each. The size of the sheets is about 12 by 18 inches. The paper was published Thursdays of each week. The s's were all like f's. The paper has been remarkably well preserved.—Washington Star.

Making a Bigger Dictionary.

Science is making the dictionary bigger every day. A hundred years ago nearly every common word now connected with electricity was wholly unknown. Steam and all the names now applied to railroads, engines, gas, the telegraph, the telephone and a hundred and one other important subjects never had been heard of—and they would make a small dictionary in themselves. And now the single invention for throwing moving pictures on screens, variously known as the vitascope or kinetoscope, has added dozens of new words to the language within the last year or two. Here is a list of the various names for "movement photography":

Phantoscope, criterioscope, vitascope, cinematograph, biograph, kinematograph, wondrouscope, animatoscope, vitagraph, panoramograph, cosmoscope, anarithmoscope, katoptikon, magniscope, zoeoptrotrope, phantasmagoria, projectoscope, variscope, cinograph, cinemomograph, hypnoscope, centograph, xograph, electroscope, cinagraphoscope, kinetoscope, craboscope, vitaliscope, cinematoscope, mutoscope, cinoscope, animatoscope, theatograph, chronophotographoscope, motograph, kinetograph, rayoscope, motorscope, kinetophone, throtoscope, phenakistoscopes, venetoscope, vitrescope, zinematograph, vitopticon, stinnetiscope, vivrescope, diaramiscope, lobsteroscope, oomrinothograph, kinetoptoscope.—Chicago Record.

Administered His Own Estate.

Mr. and Mrs. Cotterell never had any children of their own, but they adopted and educated several orphans and started them in life. Uncle Matthew, as all who knew him loved to call him, had a religion of his own. It was to do good, and he was always looking for opportunities for practicing his religion. Charitable to a fault, he often gave to the undeserving, but he said it was because he did not care to risk refusing one who might be worthy.

"I'll spend what I have," said Mr. Cotterell, "and that will prevent any fighting over my estate." Upon this suggestion he acted, and the result was that he spent the declining years of his life in doing good. He was the executor of his own estate.

When Matthew Cotterell died, North Bend lost a citizen who had been identified with its growth and prosperity, who had given of his means to promote the city's welfare and who was ready at all times to do something more than talk. But more than this the poor lost a friend and the state lost a splendid citizen.—Omaha World-Herald.

Christmas Boxes.

It was anciently a custom to carry a box from door to door for the collection of little presents at Christmas. In an old work entitled "The Athenian Oracle" it is stated that formerly it was a custom to offer mass for the safety of all ships that went on long voyages, to each of which a little box was affixed, under the custody of the priest, into which the sailors put money or other valuables in order to secure the prayers of the church. At Christmas these boxes were opened and were thence called "Christmas boxes." In order that no person should omit these presents the poor were encouraged to beg "box money" of their richer neighbors to enable them to add to the priest's perquisites.

Japanese Methods.

An English dealer, interviewing Oka, the great modern Japanese carver of ivory, said to him: "Why do you waste your time on carving the under part, which is never seen? You could work much quicker and make money far more rapidly if you were to leave that part plain." And the carver answered: "God, who gave me skill and taste, can see the under part. I dare not leave it uncarved." That is the spirit in which the work is done in far Japan. Small wonder that it excels in beauty and individuality.—Exchange.

The first mention of money in the Scriptures was Abraham's purchase of a sepulcher for 400 shekels of silver, B. C. 1860.

The Oldest Photographer.

The Boston Transcript says: Josiah Johnson Hawes, the oldest working photographer in this country, and probably in the world, celebrated his ninety-third birthday recently. He has occupied the same studio, at 19 Tremont Row, since 1843, when he started in business with Mr. Southwick, who died a few years ago. Mr. Hawes is still vigorous, and attends to all the daguerreotypes in this city, and all the famous men and women of a generation ago, including Daniel Webster, Rufus Choate, Jenny Lind, Baron Rothschild, Edward Everett, Charlotte, Cushman, Longfellow, Whittier, Parker, Emerson, Alcott, Lucy Larcom and Grace Greenwood, posed for him in this same studio.

Governor Sadler Says the Government Means Business.

Governor Sadler spent the day here yesterday. The Governor is pleased over the action of Congress in appropriating the $50,000,000 for purposes of defense in case of emergency and says that the prompt action demonstrates that in the event of war, it does not take very long for the Government of the United States to act, notwithstanding the influence of the trusts and money power. He claims that when the people become aroused and show a determination on any proposition the Administration and Congress realize that quibbling will not be tolerated and they further realize that instead of being masters they are the servants of the people and must act according to the wishes of the majority.

The Governor believes the Spanish situation is serious and may result in war, but the conservative position and deliberate action of this Government has been such that other nations will not create any complications and if war comes it will be comparatively of short duration and will ultimately result in the freedom of Cuba. The $50,000,000 will be used in perfecting the coast defenses and protecting the ports of entry of the country and even though the present trouble should pass by without resulting in war, it affords the United States a good excuse and the opportunity to increase her army and navy, remodel and improve her defenses, procure additional battleships, torpedo boats and destroyers and in fact to place the army and navy of the United States, on an equal, if not a higher standard, with any power in the world. The Governor believes the time has come when the United States should lead in military and naval matters, as she does in everything and a brush with the Spaniards would awaken the pride of our soldiers and marines that had grown cold through a long period of comparative inactivity. In addition to this the patriotism of the people is warmed and the enthusiasm of the older ones awakens and interest in the rising generation and the love of the country and flag, is thus taught and impressed upon the youth and the Government of, for and by the people is perpetuated.

He believes that the expenditure and distribution of this amount of money will cause a revival of business and that everyone will feel the benefit to a certain extent. He believes in the expenditure of Government, State, County and municipal money for the public good and that accumulating or hoarding public funds is not the proper policy. The Governor says: "Advocate town improvements of permanent and substantial nature, good water, lights public conveniences of all kinds and the results are not only surprising but beneficial, the larger taxpayer being benefitted in proportion to his holdings with the person who owns but little. This creates pride, pride increases enthusiasm and when once the right movement is commenced it is an easy matter to keep it going. The Governor is a thoroughly practical man and while he admits that errors may now and then occur in the advocacy or establishment of some prospective benefit, the errors serve to increase, rather than to dampen public enthusiasm and a few such errors are far better than a narrow minded policy which must necessarily make a community, groggy, poorer and as a result the disintegration and depreciation of property follows; people lack interest, patriotism and in fact all of the attributes of success and happiness."

Novel Features of the National Museum Exhibit at Omaha.

Under the direction of Prof. W. H. Holmes, head curator of the department of anthropology, National Museum, the work of pushing forward the exhibit of the Mississippi exposition, to be held in Omaha June 1 to November 1 of the present year, is being carried on at present.

It is proposed that the exhibit will be one of the best, if not the best, which will represent the government institutions at any affair of the kind.

The plans for the displays are being carefully perfected, and it is hoped that at the end of two months' time everything will be ready to set up in the government building at Omaha.

Prof. Holmes is giving the matter his personal supervision, and Prof. Otis T. Mason, curator of the division of ethnology, is bending his efforts toward making the government show a success in every particular.

The appropriation for the government exhibit is $230,000, of which the sum of $60,000 will be devoted to the construction of the building itself, including a life-saving station, to cost $2,500. This latter is expected to prove one of the most attractive features of the whole exhibit.

One exhibit that will be prepared by Professors Holmes and Mason will be a large space in which articles will be displayed in regular order showing the development of the human mind. Various articles commencing with those in use by primitive man and the progress in musical instruments, work tools, mechanical appliances through all ages up to the perfected machinery of all kinds at the present time. This will include agricultural implements from the rude stone plow of the aborigines to the most approved machines of the present day. The transportation exhibit will in detail show the human burden bearer, next the animal load carrier and so on until the up-to-date methods in which steam and electricity furnish the power to move the world.

So on in detail, through the mechanical arts, science, etc., the advance and progress will be shown and it is proposed to make this feature of the Exposition not only an entertaining, but an instructive department where one in a few hours may gain a knowledge of the development of the human mind as well as the wonders of human ingenuity, that would under ordinary circumstances take years of study to acquire.

Shortage of Cattle.

Almost without exception, cattlemen now agree that there is a shortage of cattle in the West, and that higher prices than those that now prevail are inevitable. For the next six months the feed lots must provide the beef supply of the country. They will have little trouble doing this until June, but after that time the movement from the feeding farms will be limited and the grass cattle will not be ready yet. If there is a shortage, it should become pretty evident by July, and in August there should be even more evidences, and the logic of the situation is a gradual advance every month until fall, and higher priced cattle next year than this. The feeder who sends half-fat cattle to market under the present condition is either in a hard hole or does not take a stock paper and keep posted on the situation. The man who feeds his cattle to a finish can hardly fail to make money, and the longer it takes to finish them the more money he will make.—Denver Stockman.

At The Theatre

"In Old Madrid" drew a very small audience last evening. Doubtless the inclemency of the weather and the $1 admission had a dampening effect. There are a few amusing features in the comedy and the costumes are quite attractive, but the plot is light. In reality, by a little trimming it would make a pleasing novelty as an after piece. The singing of Mr. Francis Jones can only be called fair at best; while his stage presence is very good and his movements and gestures are graceful and expressive, his voice is lacking in sweetness, his throat notes are pinched and harsh and his chest tones lack fullness.

Miss Margaret Shaw did a Spanish fancy dance very creditably and this seemed to be her specialty. In her portrayal of a senorita, she lacked the usual warmth and gush that prevails among the Spanish ladies. The company goes East from here.

"The Ensign."

PORTUGUESE PIRATE

HOW BARTHOLEMY CAPTURED A HUGE SPANISH MERCHANTMAN.

His First Attack Failed—The Little Pirate Then Lay Within Short Range, and With Rifles the Spanish Force Was Reduced and Finally Conquered.

A series of sketches by Frank R. Stockton on "The Buccaneers of Our Coast" is one of the features of St. Nicholas. Mr. Stockton tells of the adventures of Bartholemey Portuguese, who, with a small crew in a small vessel, captured a huge Spanish merchantman in the Caribbean sea. Mr. Stockton says: "The little pirate sailed boldly toward the big Spaniard, and the latter vessel, utterly astonished at the audacity of this attack—for the pirates' flag was flying—lay to, head to the wind, and waited, the gunners standing by their cannon. When the pirates had come near enough to see and understand the size and power of the vessel they had thought of attacking, they did not, as might have been expected, put about and sail away at the best of their vessel's speed, but they kept straight on their course, as if they were about to fall upon a great, unwieldy merchantman, manned by common sailors."

Perceiving the foolhardiness of the little vessel, the Spanish commander determined to give it a lesson which would teach its captain to understand better the relative power of great vessels and little ones, so as soon as the pirates' vessel was near enough he ordered a broadside fired upon it. The Spanish ship had a great many people on board. It had a crew of 70 men, and besides these there were some passengers and regular marines, and, knowing that the captain had determined to fire upon the approaching vessel everybody had gathered on deck to see the little pirate ship go down.

But the ten great cannon balls which were shot out at Bartholemey's little craft all missed their aim, and before the guns could be reloaded or the great ship be got around so as to deliver her other broadside the pirate vessel was alongside of her. Bartholemey had fired none of his cannon. Such guns were useless against so huge a foe. What he was after was a hand to hand combat on the deck of the Spanish ship.

The pirates were all ready for hot work. They had thrown aside their coats and shirts, as if each of them were going into a prizefight, and with their cutlasses in their hands and their pistols and knives in their belts they scrambled like monkeys up the sides of the great ship. But Spaniards are brave men and good fighters—there were more than twice as many of them as there were of the pirates—and it was not long before the latter found out that they could not capture that vessel by boarding it. So over the side they tumbled as fast as they could go, leaving some of their number dead and wounded behind them. They jumped into their own vessel, and then they put off to a short distance to take breath and get ready for a different kind of fight. The triumphant Spaniards now prepared to get rid of this boatload of half naked wild beasts, which they could easily do if they took better aim with their cannon than they had done before.

But to their amazement they soon found that they could do nothing with the guns, nor were they able to work their ship so as to get it into position for effectual shots. Bartholemey and his men laid aside their cutlasses and their pistols and took up muskets, with which they were well provided. Their vessel lay within very short range of the Spanish ship, and whenever a man could be seen through the portholes or showed himself in the rigging or anywhere else where it was necessary to go in order to work the ship he made himself a target for the good aim of the pirates. The pirate vessel could move about as it pleased, for it required but a few men to manueve it, and so it kept out of the way of the Spanish guns, and its best marksmen, crouching close to the deck, fired and fired whenever a Spanish hand was to be seen.

For five long hours this unequal contest was kept up. It might have reminded one of a man with a slender rod and a long, delicate line who had hooked a big salmon. The man could not pull in the salmon, but on the other hand, the salmon could not hurt the man, and in the course of time the big fish would be tired out and the man would get out his landing net and scoop him in.

Now, Bartholemey thought he could scoop in the Spanish vessel. So many of her men had been shot that the two crews would be more nearly equal. So he boldly ran his vessel alongside the big ship and again boarded her. Then there was another great fight on the decks. The Spaniards had ceased to be triumphant, but they had become desperate, and in the furious combat ten of the pirates were killed and four wounded. But the Spaniards fared worse than that. More than half of the men who had not been shot by the pirates went down before their cutlasses and pistols, and it was not long before Bartholemey had captured the great Spanish ship.

It was a fearful and a costly victory he had gained. A great part of his own men were lying dead or helpless on the deck, and of the Spaniards only 40 were left alive, and these, it appears from the accounts, must have been nearly all wounded or disabled.

BIDS FOR MUNICIPAL BONDS WANTED.

UNDER AND BY VIRTUE OF THAT certain Act of the Legislature of the State of Nevada, entitled "An Act to Incorporate the Town of Reno," approved March 3, 1897, and of an affirmative vote of the electors of the City of Reno at a special election held on the 7th day of October, 1897, written bids are invited and will be received until April 11, 1898, at 8 o'clock P. M. Of said day for the purchase of the bonds of the City of Reno in the sum of $150,000, or any part thereof, not less than the sum of $500, to be known and designated as "Reno Water Works Bonds." Also for the purchase of the bonds of the City of Reno in the further sum of $20,000, or any part thereof, not less than the sum of $500, to be known as and designated as "Reno Electric Light Bonds." All of said bonds to bear interest at the rate of six per cent, payable annually. The principal of said bonds to mature and be payable in equal annual installments between and including the sixth and twentieth years from their date of issuance and the date of the said payments to be designated upon the face of the said bonds. Both the principal and the interest of the said bonds to be payable at maturity in lawful money of the United States of America at the office of the Treasurer of the City of Reno at Reno, Nevada. No bids for the said bonds or any thereof will be considered if for less than the par value thereof or if for a less amount than the sum of $500, and the right is expressly reserved to reject any and all bids. The constitutionality of the above mentioned Act of the Legislature and the regularity and the legality of the above mentioned special election have been sustained by a comprehensive decision of the Supreme Court of the State of Nevada, a copy of which together with other pertinent information will be furnished to prospective bidders upon application therefore being made to the City Clerk. Bidders should designate in their respective bids the redemption year of the bonds for which they bid. All bids must be sealed, endorsed, "Bids for Reno Bonds," and directed to F. B. Porter, City Clerk, Reno, Nevada.

 R. S. OSBURN, President City Council.
 Attest F. B. PORTER, City Clerk, 3-9td

STATEMENT FOR THE INFORMATION OF PROSPECTIVE PURCHASERS OF RENO WATER WORKS AND ELECTRIC LIGHT BONDS.

THE CITY OF RENO WAS INCORPORATED by a special Act of the Legislature of the State of Nevada, approved March 3, 1897. It is the largest city on the line of the Central Pacific Railroad between Sacramento, California, and Ogden, Utah, has had a steady and continuous growth ever since its inception and is situated in the midst of the richest agricultural and stock raising country between the Sierra Nevada and the Rocky mountains. Its resources are agricultural and pastoral rather than those of mines. It is the terminus of the V. & T. R. R. extending south with its connection three hundred and fifty miles, and also of the N. C. & O. R. R. extending north eighty miles. It is the seat of the State University, of the State Hospital for Mental Diseases, and of the State Agricultural Society. At the general election of 1896 it cast 1300 votes and its present estimated population is 6,500. Its assessed valuation in the year 1897 was the sum of $1,745,890 which was upon a low and very conservative basis of valuation. Its total bonded indebtedness from all sources is $45,000. The total rate of taxation in the year 1897 for State, county, and local purposes was $2.87 on each one hundred dollars valuation.

By its Incorporation Act the City is authorized, subject to an affirmative vote of its electors, to issue its bonds in a sum not exceeding $150,000 for procuring water and constructing municipal water works, and in a necessary sum for constructing municipal electric light works. A special election was called by the City Council for October 7, 1897 at which election the electors of the city voted in favor of bonding the city in the sum of $130,000 for municipal water works and in the sum of $20,000 for a municipal electric light plant by a vote of 499 in favor and of 30 against. In December 1897 an action in quo warranto was instituted in the Supreme Court of Nevada by Mr. A. G. Fletcher in which the constitutionality of the Incorporation Act was assailed upon twelve distinct grounds and also in which the legality, regularity, and sufficiency of the special election held on October 7, 1897, was questioned. On the 23rd day of February 1898, the Supreme Court of Nevada filed its unanimous opinion in the action in which it sustained the constitutionality of the Incorporation Act, and the legality, regularity, and the sufficiency of the special election, in each and every particular. The City Council is authorized by law to raise the necessary funds with which to meet the bond interest charges and to liquidate the principal by either direct taxation of all property or by water and light charges against users or by both.

NOTICE OF APPOINTMENT.

IN THE SECOND JUDICIAL DISTRICT Court of the State of Nevada, county of Washoe.
 In the matter of the estate of James McDermott deceased.
 Notice is hereby given that the undersigned was duly appointed administrator of the estate of James McDermott, deceased, by order of the above entitled Court, made and entered therein on the 7th day of February, A. D. 1898. That he duly qualified as such Administrator, and Letters of Administration on said estate were issued to him out of said Court on the 12th day of February, A. D. 1898. All persons having claims against the said deceased must, within sixty days from the first publication of the notice—and the date hereof—file their said claims with the Clerk of the above entitled Court, together with the proper and necessary vouchers.
 Dated, Reno, Nevada, the 23d day of February, A. D. 1898.
 M. HATTON,
 Administrator of the estate of James McDermott, deceased. 4w.

SUMMONS.

IN THE SECOND JUDICIAL DISTRICT Court of the State of Nevada, in and for Washoe county. The State of Nevada sends to M. T. Chappell, greeting: You are hereby required to appear in an action commenced against you as defendant by George D. Winters as plaintiff in the second Judicial District Court of the State of Nevada, in and for the County of Washoe, and answer the complaint therein within ten days after the service on you of this summons (exclusive of day of service), if served in said county, or twenty days if served out of said county, but within said District, and in all other cases forty days; or judgment by default will be taken against you according to the prayer of said complaint. The action is brought to recover against you a judgment and decree respecting certain lands situated in the county of Washoe, State of Nevada, which lands are described as follows, to-wit: South half of the southeast quarter and south half of the southwest quarter of section three (3) of the southeast quarter and south half of the southwest quarter of section four (4), township twenty-four north range nineteen east, Mount Diablo base and meridian, containing three hundred and twenty acres, according to the United States survey of said lands, said judgment and decree is sought against you respecting said lands on the ground that plaintiff furnished all the money and funds that have been paid and used for the purchase of said lands, also all money paid out and used in connection with the purchase of said lands—also because of the fact that said lands were purchased by you for the plaintiff and for him only, as per agreement made at the time of purchase of said lands by you for plaintiff, and on the further ground that plaintiff has for fourteen years last past paid the taxes on said lands, and has had for said term the exclusive use and possession of said lands, holding and claiming the same as his lands and property for said term of fourteen years and on the ground that plaintiff is the owner of said lands, and that plaintiff has been for the last fourteen years peaceably and uninterrupted by any claim or demand of others. All of which will more fully appear from the complaint, which is filed in the office of the Clerk of said Court at Reno, in said county, and which you are especially referred. And you are further notified that if you fail to appear and answer said complaint, the relief demanded will be granted. In testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand at Reno, this thirty first day of January, A. D. 1898.
 W. WEBSTER,
 Attorney for Plaintiff

SUMMONS.

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE STATE of Nevada, in and for Washoe county. The State of Nevada sends to C. M. Wiley Greeting:—
 You are hereby required to appear in an action commenced against you as defendant by Marge E. Wiley as plaintiff in the District Court of the State of Nevada, in and for the County of Washoe, and answer the complaint therein within ten days after the service on you of this summons (exclusive of day of service), if served in said county, or twenty days if served out of said county, but within said District, and in all other cases forty days; or judgment by default will be taken against you according to the prayer of said complaint. The complaint brought to obtain the judgment and decree of the Court dissolving the bonds of matrimony heretofore existing between you and the plaintiff, and for a decree of divorce, upon the grounds of willful desertion and failure on the part of the plaintiff to provide for the plaintiff the common necessities of life, having the ability so to do, and also a decree awarding to plaintiff the custody and control of the minor children, Lora, Charles, Roy and Gladys Wiley, and also a general sale of all of which will more fully appear from the complaint, which is on file in the office of the Clerk of said Court at Reno, in said county, and to which you are especially referred. And you are further notified that if you fail to appear and answer said complaint, the relief demanded will be granted. In testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and affixed the seal of said Court, at Reno, this first day of March, A. D. 1898.
 J. A. BOWMAN, Deputy Clerk of the District Court of the State of Nevada, in and for Washoe County.

MADAM PICKORY.

Fit theme for song the sylvan maid
 Who, if she knew not fauns or satyrs,
 Had conjured oft in mossy shade
 Visions of savage palfaces lateral
 I knew she danced on rock and maize
 In cabin single roomed and sooted,
 Quite innocent of frills and stays,
 Warm hearted and barfooted

Her beauty surely brought her note.
 Perchance the frankness of her manners
 Gossip o'er ray tales did glaze
 To prove her scruples not Diana's,
 But when the hero husband came
 He crushed the scandal pests like vermin.
 A terror hedged the hero's name,
 And she was white as ermine.

Thenceforth, a matron fair and fat,
 She shared the dotting hero's station.
 Thine with Alexander sat
 And heard the plaudits of a nation.
 What though small souls, with furtive leer,
 Revived old rumors of dishonor?
 The hero held her yet more dear
 And stainless as Madonna

Wary of fortune's smile and frown,
 She died without the White House portal,
 But never wore richer crown,
 A hero's troth and love immortal
 That love had made a queen of her
 Whom haughty dames turned prudish hools on,
 And history smiles, but has no slur
 For Mistress Andrew Jackson.

SOMEWHAT MIXED.

An Enigma Which Broke Up the Answers to Correspondents Editor.

"Mister, do you write the 'Answers to Correspondents' for this paper?" asked the stranger with the despondent countenance as he leaned across the desk and heaved a rye tinged sigh through the atmosphere

"Yes, sir. What can I do for you?"
 "Can you answer a little question of relationship?"
 "Give me the facts, and I'll try."
 "Here you are: When I was a baby, my mother, a widow, married the brother of my father's first wife. He was my uncle, of course, but that made him my father, didn't it?"
 "Your stepfather, you mean."

"Yes. Well, mother got a divorce from my uncle-father, and then she married the oldest son of my father's first wife. He was my half brother, wasn't he, and also my stepfather, wasn't he?"

"It looks as if he was."
 "That made mother my half sister, didn't it?"
 "I—I—I guess it did."

"That's what I thought. Well, you see, my uncle father had a daughter before he married mother. She was my half sister, too, wasn't she?"

"I—I—I—I guess she was."
 "That's the way I put it up. Next thing was my mother got a divorce from my brother-father, and he—my half brother, you know—married my half sister. That made her a kind of step-mother of mine, didn't it?"

"I—I—I—"
 "Well, never mind answering yet. My half-brother-stepfather died, and now my half-sister-stepmother and I want to get married, but we can't figure out if we can without being arrested for some kind of thingamy. We don't want to have our tire punctured just as we get to scorching on the matrimonial tandem. What I want you to tell me is what is my relationship to my brother, my uncle, my stepfathers, my half sisters, my mother, my half brother, my stepmother and myself, and if I can marry her without—why, what's the matter?"

The "Answers to Correspondents" editor had become unconscious. —San Francisco Examiner.

Lincoln and Jeff Davis.

Malcolm Townsend has pointed out coincidences of events in the lives of Lincoln and Jeff Davis. Both were born in Kentucky—Lincoln in 1809, Davis in 1808. Both removed from their native state in childhood, Davis going to the southwest, Lincoln to the north-west. In the Black Hawk war Davis was a second lieutenant of regulars, Lincoln a captain of volunteers. Both began their political career at the same period, 1844, Davis being a presidential elector for Henry Clay. Both were elected to congress at about the same time, Davis in 1845, Lincoln in 1846. Lastly, in the same year and almost the same day, they were called on to pre- side over the destinies of their respective governments, Davis as president of the Confederate states, Feb. 8, 1861, and Lincoln as president of the United States, March 4, 1861.—New York Press.

His English.

"Well, you have a fine shop here," said the customer as he settled himself down to be shaved.
 "Yah!" said the barber.
 "But I don't think much of the outside."
 "No; dot is not in it," said the barber.
 "That's a good one," said the customer, laughing.
 The barber flushed.
 "Yat for you laugh at me?" he cried in anger. "You t'mk I understand not English?"—New York Sun.

Reforming.

"Your money or your life!" shouted the footpad.
 "I have no money," said the victim, "and my life will be of no use to you."
 "I don't know about that," replied the footpad. "I have been thinking for some time of trying a new life."—Philadelphia North American.

A Spur to Pride.

"It does a man good to be rejected by a girl."
 "Why?"
 "It makes him pitch in and marry a more attractive girl."—Chicago Record.

The omnibuses of one London company covered just about 20,000,000 miles in the course of a year, the distance sufficient to take them nearly three times around the world every day.

Accidental Death.

"I understand his death was due to an accident," said the man from the east.

"That's what it was, stranger," replied the native. "Bill only meant to wing him when he shot, but somebody jogged his arm."—Chicago Post.
